I wanted to tell you All the times you came Be courageous My way is endless Carry more people than you can Those you help are people you take back on your way Today they are a strange thing because the people are a little off the road I wait for you always Here is the greatest Church that can exist If someone asks you to tell her that the Lord said so: "That this Tent is like the Tent of My Father when it brought the chosen people into the promised land"

I greet you. Take heart. I am here. All the hours you want. Always come. See you soon.
